It's so easy to look into the mirror and point out your flaws, but this is the time to dig deep and decide what you LOVE about yourself. Now that we have spent three quarters together, and want you to write a letter to yourself, from you, explaining all those positive qualities that you believe makes you a positive role model for others and a great leader. These can be your accomplishments, special characteristics you like about yourself, or any other thing that sets you apart from the crowd.
