The goal of Rocky Mountain Special Hockey is to give people with developmental disabilities the chance to play the sport of ice hockey in an environment which is adapted to the level of ability at which the athletes are able to participate. Rocky Mountain Special Hockey exists for the enrichment of the athlete with a developmental disability. In addition to physical hockey skills, the program emphasizes developing a sense of team that involves development of desirable characteristics such as commitment, dependability, responsibility, and caring about and for others. In addition, the game of hockey is used by Rocky Mountain Special Hockey to develop within each player the characteristics that will help the player be more successful both inside and outside the hockey environment.
